Exciting news update on CSA's Technical Memorandums and Guidance Notes

---

The CSA currently publishes Technical Memorandums (TM's) and Guidance Notes (GN's), which, are learning guides and manuals on specific subjects to assist and guide members and non-members.

Costs:

Previously, TM's were available at a fee for all members and non - members.

The CSA are now pleased to announce that all TM's, once updated, are now FREE for all members and are available to non-members at a cost of £24.

Current TM's available are:

TM 2 - Guide to trouble shooting for air distribution systems

TM 8 - Guide to trouble shooting refrigeration equipment

TM 10 - Guide to site performance testing of heating and cooling coils

TM 11 - Guide to alternative pipework systems & fixed orifice flow measurement

TM 18 - Guide to PICVs function and commissioning

TM 19 - Guide to thermal balancing of HWS and CWS systems

Access:

The TM's and GN's are available to download on the CSA website. In order to open these documents you will need a username and password. This will be sent out via email to all current members who have paid their annual membership subscriptions. Please note the password will change on a regular basis.

This is an exciting transition for the CSA, as previously the TM's were only available offline.
